

Privacy & Data Protection

Law

The interest protected, and the framework around personal data.

Principles commonly applied to personal data.

Principles

Lawful basis required for processing

Purpose limitation

Data minimisation

Accuracy and storage limits

Security and accountability

Individual rights

Access to your own data

Rectification of errors

Erasure in defined circumstances

Objection to certain processing

Portability between providers

Educational reference. Data protection frameworks vary considerably by jurisdiction and change frequently. Not legal advice.